THE CITY COUNCIL

Has a Lively Meeting Tuesday Night.

At the regular meeting of the City Council Tuesday night the question of requiring the Leestown turnpike to move its toll-gate outside the city limits was brought up, discussed and referred to a special committee.

A resolution requesting the Secretary of War to have the drift pile under the bridge removed was adopted.

No ordinance or order allowing the use of the streets and alleys to the Western Union Telegraph Company having been passed heretofore, an ordinance granting said privileges to said Company was presented, read to the council and referred to a special committee.

The Ordinance Committee was directed to prepare an ordinance providing for the erection of arc lights at the corner of Steele and Todd streets and at the work-house.

A lively breeze was created by the presentation of an account of Messrs. J. L. Rodman & Son for $55 for a carpet furnished for the Mayor's office. Mr. Marshall objected to the account being allowed, when the Mayor called Councilman Fortune to the chair and explained the matter, producing letters from the Mayors of Owensboro, Henderson and Paducah in regard to their offices, all of which stated they were furnished offices in the city buildings or in buildings used by the city, but none of them said they rented offices elsewhere, used them as law offices and made the city pay the rent and for the carpets on the floors. Councilman Williams also opposed the motion to allow the account and the yeas and nays were called upon the question, which resulted as follows: yeas, Councilmen Ellwanger, Fuhs, Haly, Miles and Tobin; nays, Councilmen Marshall, Sower and Williams—Councilman Fortune not voting.

C. D. Bercaw, 2nd Vice President.

The name adopted for the organization is the Log Cabin Club and quite a large number of young men have become members.

A Lively Stepper.

Mr. Robert P. Pepper has a very promising trotting filly in Pelerine, by Onward, which is being handled by Mr. Geo. B. Hays at his track near this city. She has shown several very fast miles, having gone the distance in 2:12½, and trotted a half Tuesday morning in 1:04, without a skip. She will start in the 2:17 class at Detroit, Michigan, on the 27th of this month for her first public record, and it is safe to say will come first to the wire.

A Great Trip.

Seven coaches, filled with Sunday-school children, teachers and others—the party numbering about four hundred—left this city over the Kentucky Midland Wednesday morning at 6:30 to spend the day at the Ludlow Lagoon and in Cincinnati. Mr.

Chas. D. Bercaw, General Ticket and Passenger Agent of the Midland, had charge of the party and it is unnecessary to say that they enjoyed the day and saw everything to be seen in so short a time. Returning the train arrived here about 11 o'clock at night.

Essenic Fete.

Frankfort Senate of the Ancient Essenic Order will give a lawn fete on the lot at the corner of Second and Steele streets, where the Mills meeting was held, on Friday evening of next week, July 29th, between the hours of 8 p. m. and 1 a. m. Refreshments will be served in a tent erected for the purpose, and dancing will be indulged in by the young people upon a dancing floor, which will be provided in the open air. Supper will be furnished for 50 cents, with an additional charge of 25 cents for ices, the proceeds of which will go to the treasury of the Senate.

Monkeyed With a Gas Stove.

Mr. Will. H. Mastin started to make a fire in his wife's gas cooking stove, at his home on Cross street Sunday, but was not quick enough in applying the match, and when he did attempt to light it the gas which had accumulated in the stove exploded, burning his face and scorching his eyebrows, hair and mustache. His eyes were also injured but not seriously so.

A Fact Worth Knowing.

Consumption, LaGrippe, Pneumonia, and all Throat and Lung diseases are cured by Shilo's Cure. For sale by John W. R. Williams & Co. 39

The "Old Taylor" Sold.

The Security Trust and Safety Vault Co., of Lexington, as assignee of Messrs. E. H. Taylor, Jr., & Sons, offered the "Old Taylor" Distillery, on Glens Creek, Woodford county, on Wednesday at public sale, together with the trade marks and brands of whiskeys made there. Mr. J. Swigert Taylor, representing the new firm of E. H. Taylor, Jr., & Sons, incorporated, was the only bidder and the property was knocked down to him at $16,500.

Won Again.

Mr. E. W. Ayres' fast trotter, Beuzetta, that won the $30,000 race at Lexington last fall, started in a race at Columbus, Ohio, on Monday and won it in three straight heats, her best time being 2:14½. She is also entered in a race at Detroit, Michigan, which will be trotted the latter part of the month.

When Travelling.

Whether on pleasure bent, or business, take on every trip a bottle of Syrup of Figs, as it acts most pleasantly and effectually on the kidneys, liver and bowels, preventing fevers, headaches and other forms of sickness. For sale in 50 cent and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

Writing History.

Col. J. Stoddard Johnston, since his defeat for the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State, has turned his attention to getting up a memorial history of Louisville. The book is being written by Col. Reuben T. Durrett and other able writers, and Col. Johnston is the editor-in-chief.

Taxed Out.

Messrs. W. A. Gaines & Co. are removing two thousand barrels of free whisky from the warehouses at the Hermitage Distillery and storing it in the warehouses at their Old Crow Distillery on Glens Creek. They find it cheaper to haul the whisky up there and then haul it back here when sold than to leave it in the warehouses in South Frankfort and pay the high rate of city tax. In this connection we may mention the fact that a move was on foot to turn the large warehouse of Messrs. Mason & Foad Co., near the Kentucky Midland Station, into a public warehouse, and all the arrangements were made for the purpose, but when it was learned the rate of city tax which would have to be paid on the whisky stored there the whole thing fell through, and now whisky is shipped through here every day to the Louisville public warehouse.

Resolved, That the thanks of this excursion party are due and are hereby tendered to the Kentucky Midland, to the Cincinnati Southern and to the management of the Lagoon, for the marvelously low rates obtained, and the attentive and safe conducting the same. But most of all is the success of the excursion, with a day of uninterrupted pleasure, due to the personal supervision of Messrs. Harper and Bercau for their very polite and courteous management, their efficiency as railroad officials, and generosity as hosts, having won the praises and good wishes of every member of the party. The same was adopted with three rousing cheers that could be heard throughout the whole train.

Johnnie Meek Dead.

Mr. John B. Meek, the well-known machinist and engineer, died yesterday about 12:30 o'clock at his home on Taylor Avenue, after a two weeks' illness with uremic poison, aged forty-eight years. The deceased was a son of the late Jonathan F. Meek, and a grandson of the late John Baltzel, for whom he was named. He was born and spent a portion of his boyhood here, but when still a lad went to Louisville to live, and there learned the business of a machinist, being engaged for a long time in the manufacture of electrical instruments. Some seventeen years ago he determined to locate in someone of the growing cities of the west and came to this city to take leave of his grandparents, when they persuaded him to remain with them the balance of their days. He then settling down here and in connection with Mr. Richard Ferguson, established the Capital City Machine Works, which proved a losing investment and after a few years was sold out. Since that time has been working at his trade, and for the past two years has had charge of the electric light plant at the penitentiary.

He was a quiet but jolly, wholesome gentleman, a true friend and popular with all who knew him. Having known him as boy, schoolmate and man, we can truthfully say we never knew Johnnie Meek to be guilty of a mean or ungentlemanly act. Always the same honest, clever fellow, he goes to his grave with few enemies and many friends. He leaves a widow but no children. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock from his late residence.

Colored Odd Fellows.

The District Grand Lodge of the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows met at the Court House in this city on Tuesday and continued in session until Thursday evening. At the meeting Tuesday morning the delegates, a fine looking intelligent body of men, were welcomed by an address from Mayor Julian, to which Grand Master Ross responded, and the other proceedings were private. A grand march and banquet was given the delegates at Haly's Hall Wednesday evening by Capital City and Industrial Legion Lodges of this city, at which three hundred persons were present, toasts were drank and responded to, and the proceedings wound up yesterday with a street parade and picnic at Thorn Hill Park. The following grand officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Grand Master W. H. Ross, of Madisonville; Deputy Grand Master, W. H. Mansfield, Paducah; Grand Secretary, J. J. C. McKinley, Louisville; Grand Treasurer, J. H. Thompson, Frankfort; Grand Chaplain, P. H. Kennedy, Henderson; Grand Warden, Jerry Riley, Frankfort; Grand Guardian, A. W. Breckinridge, Midway; Grand Marshal, A. J. Brown, Henderson; Directors: T. K. Robb, Williamsburg; Chas. L. Taylor, Louisville; R. H. Holly, Mt. Sterling.

The Grand Lodge will meet at Cynthiana next year.

Deaths.

EVANS — Mr. Humphrey R. Evans died Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the residence of his mother on Lewis street, aged 27 years.

The deceased had been a great sufferer during most of his life, first with hip disease and then with consumption, but made a brave fight and as long as his health would permit stood manfully up to the duty of caring for his mother and sisters, for he was a good son and affectionate brother. Being an expert accountant, he had held for a number of years the responsible position of book-keeper for the large milling firm of L. H. Blanton & Co., of Indianapolis, Indiana, but last fall was compelled to give it up and go to North Carolina for the benefit of his health. Receiving some benefit from his sojourn in the mountains he again returned to work in Indianapolis, but his constitution would not stand the strain and he was compelled to come to this city where he remained until his death. He was an exceedingly lovable young man and his death is regretted by young and old alike. His passing away has left an aching void in the heart of a widowed mother, whose cup of sorrow was already full—having in the last few years stood by the open graves of her husband, two sons and a daughter, already grown to man and womanhood—and now that the pride and stay of her declining years is also taken her grief is almost too great to bear.

The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon from the family residence and the remains were laid to rest in the cemetery.

Births.

WILLIAMS — In this city, on Sunday, July 7, 1895, to Mr. Wiley Williams and wife, a son. The seventh child and first boy.

Caused by a Match.

A customer went into the store of Messrs. R. K. McClure & Son, on St. Clair street, a few days ago, made a purchase of a pair of shoes and then lit a cigar preparatory to going out, carelessly tossing the match from him. It fell into a lot of loose paper behind one of the counters, which immediately took fire and blazed up five or six feet high. Mr. S. C. Bull, who had just waited upon the party, was standing near and succeeded in extinguishing the flames but in doing so burned his left hand quite severely.

A New Dentist.

Dr. F. W. Epes has taken into partnership with him Dr. D. S. Henry, of South Carolina, a graduate of the Baltimore Dental College, and the office of the firm has been removed from St. Clair street to the room on Main street, over Weitzel & O'Donnell's. Read their card in another column.

Rev. Mr. Fall Dead.

Rev. James Fall, one of the oldest ministers of the Christian denomination, died at his home in Madisonville last week. The deceased was a son of the late Rev. Phillip S. Fall and a brother of Mrs. E. H. Taylor, of this city.

FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT

Entered at the post-office at Frankfort, Kentucky, as second-class matter.

GEO. A. LEWIS, Editor and Pub.

FRANKFORT, JULY 15, 1895.

The Editor Sits in His Easy Chair.

Mr. George T. Blackley, of the Kentucky Chair Company, on Wednesday afternoon invited the ROUNDABOUT to be seated and very kindly sent, with the compliments of his company, a handsome antique oak revolving office chair along for us to sit upon—one of the substantial, roomy kind in which a fellow never gets tired lolling and in which, when weary with scribbling, he can lean back and take a good rest. We expect to extract a great deal of solid comfort out of it and shall ever remember Mr. Blackley and the other members of the Kentucky Chair Company gratefully for their handsome present. The company makes none but the best chairs and this is a daisy.

THE PURPOSE OF EDUCATION.

Some Obstacles Met in Accomplishing That Purpose.

GEO. ROBBINS.

The highest aim in education is the development of such character as will make the individual the image of his Creator. Good character is the stage of moral control, and is reached only after passing over and beyond a stage of physical control. The observance of the command "you shall" precedes the recognition of the obligation, "I ought." You shall implies the restraint of external authority. I ought testifies to the exercise of internal authority. Apply those two principles in the school and it becomes a living organism whose function is to develop the I ought spirit. When this spirit is highly developed external authority is transformed into inner freedom. Man is the only terrestrial being which enjoys rational freedom. This is his highest possible earthly enjoyment. Any stage of enjoyment lower than rational freedom circumscribes and keeps man within narrow bounds; makes him a subject rather than a master. Rational freedom is the perfection of manhood.

In the economy of God, all things are made subservient to the cultivation of man's highest nature. This nature manifests itself in action founded on choice, and choice founded on desire. Desire is, virtually, the expression of character. Therefore, every teacher should realize that the content and the intent of all school studies, from those of the kindergarten throughout the university, and the studies of later life also, are designed to stimulate the student to rational desire, the basis of rational freedom, and to develop this desire in its fullest realization, the proper exercise of his moral and religious nature.

But it is as morally impossible for a teacher, occupying a low plane of development, to inspire a pupil to the attainment of rational freedom, as it is physically impossible for him to overturn a mountain. The chief obstacle to the attainment of this high ideal is stunted mentality, caused by that abominable contagion, the leprosy of incompetency, so prevalent in the lower grades, especially. Oh that some high authority would command these lepers to bathe seventy times seven times in the Jordan of broad culture for their cleansing.

Resolutions of Respect.

The following are the proceedings of Frankfort Association Stationary Engineers at a called meeting held on Saturday evening, July 6th:

A meeting was called July 6th, of the Stationary Engineers Association, of Frankfort, Kentucky, to take action in relation to the death of A. J. Potts, a member of the Association. A committee was appointed, consisting of Marcus A. Jones, Hugh Rensford, and Charles Fossor to draft proper resolutions.

The following resolutions were reported and unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased an Almighty and Wise Providence to remove from our midst our loved and honored brother, A. J. Potts, Resolved, That we have lost a good and faithful member of our order.

Resolved, That in his untimely taking off we deeply appreciate the loss sustained by our lodge.

Resolved, That not only will his death remove a friend and co-worker from our midst, but the Stationary Engineers Association will keenly feel the vacancy created in our midst most difficult to fill.

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathy and words of comfort to his stricken family in their sad bereavement, and bow our head in humble submission to him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on our minutes, published in the city papers and one furnished the afflicted family.

Limited will leave Cincinnati daily at 12:20 noon, arriving at Washington at 7:40 a. m., Baltimore 9:00 a. m., Philadelphia 11:20 a. m. and New York 1:40 p. m. The train will consist of Composite Car, Elegant Day Coach, with Smoking Compartment, Dining Car, Pullman Sleeping Cars of the latest and most improved design, and an Observation Car. Emphasis is especially placed on the Observation Car. Built by the Pullman Company from Chesapeake and Ohio plans, the F. F. V. Observation Cars serve their purpose better than any others that have ever been constructed.

As the F. F. V. Limited is the only train running through from Cincinnati to New York that enables the business men to transact business in Cincinnati one day and New York the next. It is the only train for Jersey City Coast resorts, which are reached by the F. F. V. at dinner time instead of in the evening. It is the only train that enables business men to transact business in Cincinnati one day and reach Washington for breakfast the next morning. It is the most desirable train for New England resorts, connections being made in the Union Depot in Washington with the Colonial Express running through to Boston which reaches New Haven 4:10 p. m., New London 5:30 p. m., Providence 7:15 p. m. and Boston 8:30 p. m. The F. F. V. is the only modern train lighted throughout with electricity, carrying a Dining Car and an Observation Car.

The Washington and Atlantic Express, also an Electric Lighted Vestibuled train, will leave Cincinnati at 7:00 p. m., reaching Washington 2:40 p. m. and Old Point Comfort 6:00 p. m. Connection is made at Washington with the Boston Express or the Limited, reaching New York about 9:00 p. m. FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT

FRANKFORT, JULY 13, 1895.

Will Fix the Pipe.

The Frankfort Water Company on Monday received an air pump and diving armor and will in a short time set a diver to work repairing the fourteen inch water main lying on the bottom of the river so that the water can be supplied to the north side through it and shut off from the bridge pipe.

Will Run for the Legislature.

Mr. William H. Grider, who was United States storekeeper and stationed in this city under the Republican administrations, but now a resident of Russellville, will make the race for the Legislature in Logan county on the Republican ticket.

Duckers.

Corn and tobacco both look well.

Wheat is not yielding as well as was at first expected.

The heavy rains of last week gave the weeds quite a send off and farmers are behind with their work.

Mr. W. B. Jones and Mr. L. T. Arnold, with their families, were visiting friends in Shelby county last week.

Miss Katie Beckett is on a visit to Shelby county and will remain until August.

The Democratic Convention, so-called, nominated a silver candidate and adopt a gold platform. A new way to straddle is that. Well mark our prediction, Hardin may pull through, and we hope he will. The rest of the officers will be Republicans—and, well yes, and we hope they will.

Pretty Democrat, some of our friends will say, but we do not propose to be governed by a party that says everything and does nothing. We claim the right to vote for principles rather than men or parties, and this can never be a true republic until every citizen claims and exercises that right.

MR. DARSIE'S TRIP.

From Nazareth to Hermon.

Notwithstanding Rev. George Darsie has returned home, he has supplied the Christian Guide with enough letters for several weeks, and as the readers of the ROUNDABOUT have become very much interested in them we shall continue to reproduce the same from that paper as long as they are continued.

A toilsome ride of six hours brings us to the shores of Galilee, by whose blue waters our noonday luncheon is eaten with keen appetites. But it is a ride fraught with interesting things. Lofty Hermon, nearly sixty miles away, is right before us. *Tabor re-appears within an hour after leaving Nazareth for a final view. We pass the site of Gath-hepher where the prophet Jonah was born. We file through the village of Kefr Kenna, the ancient Cana of Galilee, where Christ turned the water into wine. The well where the water came from is shown in the heart of the village, and near by you enter an ancient church where tradition locates the miracle. Since Prof. McGarvey's visit, sixteen years ago, they seem to have profited by his sensible suggestion to get a waterpot of sufficient dimensions to correspond with the bible narrative. I may say indeed as a general remark, that if the exhibition of sacred relics throughout Palestine would somehow manage not to contradict the plainest utterances of Scripture, I for one should not have much fuss with them concerning the antiquity of their relics. Better far is a very new relic that "fills the bill" than a very old one that don't. So that when I saw in the old church at Cana a stone jar capable of holding some eighteen or twenty gallons, I was enough gratified not to raise the question of age at all. And when as we were leaving the village a few minutes later some one called my attention to the house of Nathaniel I was still in good enough humor to respond, "very likely."

The Horns of Hattin or the mount of Beatitudes, where the Sermon on the mount is said to have been spoken, follows a little further on, and we say to ourselves as we go by that we should just as soon that should be the place as any other. Soon from the mountain's brow we get our first glimpse of the little pear-shaped lake, on whose waters and around whose shores our Savior spent so much time and gave forth so large a portion of his public teaching. I confess to a grievous disappointment at its size. It did not look half as big as I thought it ought to. I could hardly bring myself to believe that this insignificant body of water could have been the center of so much throbbing life and so much momentous history. Bethesda, Chorazin and Capernaum are gone, and even their sites are in dispute. Tiberias on the Southwestern coast is the only considerable town on it. It has a population less than 4,000 and though an ancient town and mentioned in the New Testament (John vi:23) we were not curious enough to explore it. Possibly our lack of zeal is partly explained by the Arabic tradition that the King of fleas lives here! We did go, however, to the hot springs a mile beyond, which are quite a resort and where we found a large company of visitors. The water is sultry and even where it enters the lake is too hot to hold the hand in with comfort. Besides Tiberias there is a small village about five miles to the north, named Mejdala, formerly known as Magdala, the birthplace of Mary Magdalene. Of Galilee's once teeming population these two towns are all that remain. And yet for what this lake once was, and for what it once saw of the Son of God, we were glad with exceeding joy to stand on its borders and to gather shells and pebbles to carry back as mementos for absent friends. And all day long as we lingered about it our hearts welled up with deep enjoyment in the strains of such familiar songs as "O Galilee, Sweet Galilee," and we felt that the hand of him who once loved so well these beautiful waters had sent us from on high a gracious blessing.

That afternoon our party in three sail boats, doubtless very similar to those of our Saviour's time, made its way across to Tell Hum (the supposed site of Capernaum) and found a heightened pleasure at thus sharing another of his experiences, though willingly foregoing one of Galilee's severe and sudden storms. Very distinctly we saw on the eastern slope where the multitude of five thousand sat on the grass (about two weeks earlier in the season) and were fed with "five barley loaves and two small fishes," and further down where the swine of the Gadarenes "ran violently down a steep place into the sea and perished in the waters." There was little to be seen at Tell Hum, and we landed only for a minute or two (in order to say we had stood where ancient Capernaum was), and then re-embarked for the plain of Cinneroth, a few miles west, where our camp for the night had been pitched. We all felt that it had been a day of great privilege.

The morrow brought us the hottest and sultriest day of our whole Palestine trip. We were making our way northward toward the waters of Merom (possibly the place where Joshua defeated the Kings (Joshua xi:1-9) and our path lay along a valley between the mountains, where not a breath of air could reach us and where the blazing sun shone down with melting power. We lunched by a copious spring of clear water known as Ain Mellahah and found our nightly resting place by the beautiful fountain of Ain Helata in the marshy region lying to the north of Lake Merom. Our route through the Jordan valley lay far to the west of the river, which I much regretted as it is here the Jordan makes its most rapid descent. I had longed to see this historic river at some point above the sea of Galilee, where for a distance of eight miles it descends at the tremendous rate of eighty-five feet to the mile. It was here that the Bedouins of the Ghawarineh tribe, who throng this whole region, came into our camp and gave some of their native dances. It was a wild, weird scene beheld as it was by the blazing light of a big bon-fire, but there was to us neither music in their songs nor grace in their movements. I have heard many people in this country try to sing, Bedouins, Syrians, Mohammedans, but I have yet to hear a real musical note from one of them. Their singing is a disagreeable nasal drawl, pitched in the minor key and having the tremolo stop pulled clear out. It does not have a joyous note in it, and invariably it gives me the blues. Perhaps it was the lack of music in their songs that made me think the

Bedouins meant to burglarize our camp that night—an unconscious application of the old line that such are the people "fit for treason, stratagems and spoils."

They say the Jordan has three sources, I shall not dispute it. But if at the close of our next day's ride the question had been left to me, I should certainly have said, "fifty." We were riding through mud and water all day, crossing big and little streams at short intervals, and yet every time we asked, "what is this?" we were answered, "one of the sources of the Jordan." About 10 o'clock we cross an old stone bridge which survives from the time of the Romans, and spans what is known as the Hasbany, one of Jordan's largest sources. An hour later we are reclining under two wide spreading trees measuring respectively 19 and 15 feet around the trunk, on a little hill called Tell El Kadi, at the foot of which there gushes out one of the largest springs in the world. Josephus calls the stream which flows from it "little Jordan" by way of giving it pre-eminence over the other two principal sources. We are on the spot where the city of Dan anciently stood, though not a sign of the city now remains. Here Jeroboam located one of the two golden calves, and this was the point which marked the northern boundary of Canaan, and gave rise to the still proverbial expression, "from Dan to Beersheba."

But we have a little further yet to go and a little higher yet to ascend before we rest for the night. The road curves among clumps of oak and olive tree up to the high tableland where stands the town of Banias on the location of what was once Caesarea Philippi. Here Jesus asked his disciples the great question, "whom do ye say that I am?" And here the Apostle Peter made answer in the sublime sentence which embodies the central truth of Christianity, "Thou art the Christ the Son of the living God." Banias stands at the foot of Hermon. In the edge of the town issuing from the base of the mountain is another tremendous spring, also one of the Jordan's sources. Over it there formerly stood a temple of Pan (whence the town derives its name) and where in the mountain side you can still see the votive niches and read the Greek inscriptions of the perished temple. Paneas (or Banias as the town is usually called) is 1,150 feet above sea level and bears evidence in several massive towers which still stand, of its former importance. On a lofty point 1,350 feet above it is the Crusader's castle which was the last fortress to yield in the unsuccessful effort to wrest the Holy Land from the grasp of the Moslem. It has been thought that this immense castle is the restoration and enlargement of another built by Herod the Great, and whose foundations laid in the solid rock may possibly have been used by the Saviour to enforce his great utterance. "On this rock I will build my church," an utterance spoken within sight of this great castle.

But our ascent of Hermon has begun and with it the most trying day in our journey through this land. The road is everywhere rough and in places steep and difficult. The wind howls, the clouds gather, the rain falls, the hail drives against us. At the mountain top when we were 5,000 feet up we were met by a large company of the fierce and fanatical Druses, who came from their stone village near by, armed to the teeth, with what intent we knew not. The Druses are a Mohammedan sect who played a chief part in the massacre in this region thirty-five years ago when something like ten thousand Christians perished. They are notoriously courageous and quarrelsome. And this particular village we were informed had only the week previous been off on a murderous raid when they had slain twenty men. With double-barrelled shot guns over their shoulders and daggers dangling at their sides, they were a dangerous looking set to meet on a lonely mountain top. But we soon found that they came for peaceful purposes, and were only intent on selling some of their weapons and other trinkets to our party. During the brief halt we made our conductor was approached by the chief of the village with a formal proposition for a treaty of peace, which was duly negotiated, signed and then ratified by the peculiar feature of eating bread together. The chief sent post haste to the village and got a thin, round loaf of dark, coarse bread, and then he and our conductor each broke off a small piece which they ate together. That act they the finishing touch to the treaty.

Although the "dew of Hermon" was too copious for comfort, and the chilling blast too penetrating for our heaviest wraps, we saw repeated rainbows upon the very summit, and rainbows too the widest and most brilliant I ever looked upon. They brightened for us the otherwise sombre picture. Moreover, we were all day busy in our thought with memories of our Saviour's Transfiguration glory, assured as we were that on some spur of the mountain we were crossing that wonderful scene transpired. For the Christ was then in this region and no other spot about Palestine so well answers the description—"an high mountain apart." What a marvellous "night scene of the Bible" that must have been. Gorgeous as were the rainbows we beheld, what must it have been to see our Saviour with a countenance like the sun and with raiment like the snow. And when from the brilliant overhanging canopy of cloud the thrilling voice declared "This is my Son the beloved, hear ye Him," no wonder the three apostles who were there present never forgot the impressions of that intense moment. May we not indeed regard that scene as being in design a spiritual rainbow for our race—the divine promise and foreshadowing of the coming time when the redeemed shall see and share the glory of Him who now sits enthroned above, and the brightness of whose celestial presence found its only manifestation on this earth when Peter, James and John were with him in the holy mount."

The Keystone of the Arch

In the office of health is vigor, which means not only muscular energy, but an active discharge of the various functions of the body, such as digestion, secretion of the bile, the action of the bowels, the circulation of the blood. Nothing more actively and thoroughly contributes to the united performance of these functions than the renowned tonic and regulator, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The result of its use is a speedy gain in strength, together with the agreeable consciousness that the tone of life is being strengthened—that one is laying up a store of vitality against the winter season, during which old age makes upon the system. The medicinal constituents of the Bitters constitute it a reliable safeguard against malaria, rheumatism and kidney trouble. Appetite and sleep improve through its use, and it protects the system from the effects of cold and damp.

At the Park To-day.

The little folks will have a great time at the park to-day. There will be a base ball game, foot races and other sports. The price of admission to the grounds, including street car fare, will be ten cents, if the tickets are bought at Mr. L. B. Marshall's office, but if tickets are not purchased those going out without them will have to pay to get into the grounds.

Firm Dissolved.

The dissolution of the firm of Crutcher & Starks, for which preparation has been going on for some time, has been completed, Mr. D. C. Crutcher withdrawing from the Louisville house and Messrs. J. P. and I. M. Starks withdrawing from the house in this city. The Louisville house will, by agreement, continue to run under the name of Crutcher & Starks, but the style of the firm in this city will hereafter be D. C. Crutcher & Co. The work of invoicing the Louisville stock was finished on Wednesday and that in this city finished yesterday, so that the new firm of D. C. Crutcher & Co. is now fully launched and ready for business.

It is to be regretted that the Messrs. Stark have thus severed their business connection with this city, as they are enterprising merchants, and while not here in person they always felt an interest in the welfare of this community and were always ready to contribute to every enterprise having for its end the improvement of the city, and now that they will no longer be claimed as Frankfort men, our citizens wish them abundant success in the Falls City.

As for Mr. D. C. Crutcher, who is the "onliest" man in his line, well he is simply a fixture here for all time to come, and has ordered one of the largest lines of high grade goods for the fall and winter trade ever brought to this city and proposes to make business hum before the snow flies. Having always been a leader, he will climb still further up in the front rank of enterprising business men and be prepared to supply the public with the very best of everything in his line.

In the reorganization of the house, Mr. John W. Cannon, who has for years been the book keeper, retires and is succeeded by Mr. J. W. Pruett, jr. No other changes have yet been announced. Mr. Cannon has not yet determined what he will do, but it is likely will make his home in another city where he will carry with him the best wishes of a host of friends.

Matrimonial.

WHITESIDES-SCHROEDER—The marriage of Mr. Harry Whitesides, brother of Mayor Whitesides, of Jeffersonville, Indiana, and Miss Adelaide Schroeder, for several years principal of the High School department of the Public School in this city, is announced to take place at the home of the bride in Louisville. Miss Schroeder was visiting friends in this city the first of the week.

Quality Corner.

Perhaps your dear readers have grown very anxious about the absence of Mocking Bird, so I have concluded to try my claws in scratching a few lines for your valuable paper.

Miss Mary Mastin, of Woodford county, who has been visiting relatives and friends on Benson, has returned home.

Rev. H. M. Polsgrove has taken up his residence at Hutton and the trustees of the Beech Ridge school are congratulating themselves that they have succeeded in retaining him as teacher for the ensuing session.

When the fishing season was over croquet was introduced and fortunately C. Columbus still finds an attraction at the old Benson bridge.

Mrs. H. M. Polsgrove has been awarded the district school at Mt. Zion, much to the gratification of the patrons and pupils.

Messrs. James Whitma, John Peyton and Baby Pulliam furnished some most excellent music at the home of Mr. Wm. Sudduth on Wednesday evening last.

Last Thursday being the glorious Fourth of July, I spread my pinions and sped my way across the hills and dales and alighted on a bough overlooking a merry picnic, where everything seemed as merry as marriage bells. I was not long in being informed that one of the proprietors was a God-fearing member of the church. I was further informed that there was a quantity of the "O-be-joyful" on the grounds and therefore considerable hilarity to be noticed. Now is not this a burning shame? It seems to be almost impossible to distinguish a church member from a worldling. They both walk the same path, both imbibe from the same cup—yes and by your fruits this world is to know you. You cannot serve God and mammon. To eat at the Lord's table, and then drink of the cup of the devil. Who can forbid the young when such an example is set: to tempt the innocent and thereby degrade their own career?

Wonder what has become of Old Blue Jay. A friend suggests that it is probably the moulting season with him. When he loses his plumage will be a beauty.

Mr. Lee Mitchell and wife are the proud possessors of a bouncing baby boy.

MOCKING BIRD.

Swallowfield.

Things are looking fresh and green since the rain fell Sunday.

Most of the farmers are through laying by corn and have turned their attention to the tobacco worms.

Misses Cora and Agnes Webster, of this place, who have been visiting relatives in Monterey for the past three weeks, returned home last Friday, accompanied by their cousins, Misses Lulu and Aura Smith.

Miss Anna Quarles, formerly of this place, who now resides in Madison, is visiting her brother, Mr. Ambrose Quarles.

Miss Fanny Anderson Dailey has returned home from the capital city, where she has been visiting relatives for the past month.

Miss Agnes Webster left for Thorn Grove Monday morning, where she will teach a six months' school. Success to you, Miss Agnes.

Miss Estella Manford was home last week, but has returned to Lexington.

Bro. South failed to fill his appointment Saturday evening, but was here Sunday morning. Very few were present on account of the bad weather. Services were also held at the schoolhouse by Rev. Luther Lee.

If madam rumor is correct there will be several weddings soon. It seems that some of the girls will not have to wait until leap year. That is right girls, for '96 will be your lucky year.

The Rescue is doing more business now than any other boat on the Kentucky river. She is The One.

What was the matter with the "boys" Sunday? They surely did not stay at home on account of the light shower.

There was seen a very bright light in the parlor of Mr. G. F. Webster Sunday evening. One of the neighbors living by discovered the light and went to see what was the matter. On arriving there it proved to be nothing but the reflection of Miss Lena's smiles when Mr. Ovie Escantland made his appearance.
